Definitions

Remote work refers to an arrangement where the employee works from home or from another location away from the usual workplace. Depending on the details of the arrangement, remote work constitutes either a portion of the employee's work time or all of it.

Responsibilities

Position requirements and responsibilities will not change due to remote work. Employees face the same expectations in relation to professionalism, work output and customer service, regardless of where the work is being performed. The amount of time an employee is expected to work in a given week will not change, although the exact scheduling of allotted hours will be left up to the discretion of their direct supervisor(s). If an employee's physical presence is required at 's primary work location, he or she may be expected to report once given adequate notice.

Additionally, the employee agrees to abide by the following general rules:

- Be transparent about your availability and keep your calendar and availability status up to date, indicating when you are online or offline.
- Maintain strong communication by conducting regular check-ins with your manager and co-workers.
- Utilize your webcam and phone instead of email as often as possible.
- Request PTO when you intend to be away from your work.
- Set up a dedicated workspace that allows you the most focus as possible, and that is ergonomically sound and free of hazards.
- Understand that remote work is not a substitute for dependent care. Prepare a child care strategy if needed. Don't work and parent at the same time.
- Be patient and understanding with co-workers who don't have ideal at home working conditions.

Contact With Primary Location

The employee agrees to maintain regular contact with their supervisor(s). The supervisor(s) will act as the employee's primary contact at . Both the employee and his or her supervisor(s) are expected to work together to keep each other informed of any developments that occur during the workday.

The employee must receive approval from their supervisor(s) to:

- Alter their defined work schedules.
- Move company equipment to a new location.
- Transfer primary off-site operations to a new location.

Equipment

The employee agrees that, on a case-by-case basis, may determine, with information supplied by the employee and the supervisor, the appropriate equipment needs (including hardware, software, modems, phone and data lines, and other office equipment) for each remote work arrangement. The human resource and IT departments will serve as resources in this matter. Equipment supplied by the organization will be maintained by the organization. Equipment supplied by the employee, if deemed appropriate by the organization, will be maintained by the employee.
